J. E. SNYDER WILL PLAN MEETINGS OF STATE CLERKS

JESSE E. SNYDER

Although he is a former president and has held other offices in the Pennsylvania branch of the United Association of Post Office Clerks, the duties of first vice president, a position to which he was named at the annual convention in Johnstown last week, will be new to Jesse E. Snyder, veteran clerk at the Gettysburg postoffice.

As first vice president he automatically becomes supervisor of district meetings held by UNAP-O.C. units throughout the state during the year. The first meeting for the current year is expected to be held in Lock Haven, while three or four others will follow later in other sections of the state. As supervisor, it is the local man's duty to arrange for these sessions during his term as first vice president.

Mr. Snyder received his first important post with the state branch of the UNAP-O.C. in 1935 when the state unit met here immediately preceding the bi-annual convention of the national organization. The local clerk was chosen president of the postal clerks of the state at that convention and the following year he was returned to executive position as second vice president.

During the recent Johnstown convention he served as chairman of the important finance committee. During the last year he served on the staff of the state organizer.

His services in the UNAP-O.C., which he joined when he became a substitute clerk at the Gettysburg office in 1906, have not been confined to the state and local units. He worked for two years as a member of the finance committee of the national association. This year he will attend the national postal clerks' convention to be held August 21, 22 and 23 at Indianapolis, Indiana.

For many years he has been secretary of the local branch, No. 1242, of the UNAP-O.C.

His work in his professional organization forms only a part of his many responsibilities as an officer and active member of several local lodges and the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Veterans.

CALL PARLEY ON NEUTRALITY

Washington, July 18 (AP)—An extraordinary night conference at the White House was arranged by administration senate leaders today, apparently for the purpose of weighing finally the chances for neutrality revision this session.

The meeting it was authoritatively reported, will include President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, Chairman Pittman, (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee and three senate republicans, Minority Leader McNary, of Oregon, and Borah, of Idaho, and Austin, of Vermont.

Disclosure of the conference plan immediately stirred speculation on whether the White House might entertain thoughts of compromise, especially if leaders of both parties carried word that predominant senate sentiment favored postponement.

The secretary of State has advocated a neutrality program which provides for repeal of the arms embargo clause of the present law. Most opposition has been directed against this provision.

WOMAN TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Privates Joseph F. Bushey and D. Harris, of the state motor police here, answered an unusual appeal for assistance this morning when Chester A. Theobald, Baltimore, came to the barracks along the Lincoln highway west of here and asked that officers take his wife into custody.

He told the policemen that his mate had "gone insane" about a mile west of town as they drove along the highway and had beaten him, pulled his hair and nearly wrecked the car.

After consulting county authorities the police located Mrs. Clara Elizabeth Theobald, aged 49 years, in the home of Justice of the Peace C. F. Redding, near the police substation. She was talking wildly, but had injured no one nor caused any damage there.

The officers removed her by force and placed her in the county home where she will be held pending her removal to Baltimore. Police were told the woman had been suffering from a mental condition for about three years and had been confined in a private asylum for some time.

2 Jailed for Theft At Mountain Cottage

Ray Black, 18, Aspers R. 1, and Berman Beamer, 25, Biglerville R. D., were arrested Monday afternoon and evening by Officers Joseph P. Bushey and Ray E. Oberheim, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, on charges of breaking and entering a mountain cottage and stealing food, clothing, household goods and furniture worth about $30 on June 24.

Both have signed pleas of guilty and are seeking bail to secure their release from jail until a session of Adams county court next month. The charges were brought before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore by Officer Bushey.

The defendants are charged with having broken into and robbed the John N. Harper cottage in Menallen township.

Brothers Can't Agree; One Ordered From County

A charge of surety of the peace, involving two brothers, was settled in the course of a hearing Monday evening before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore and the costs were paid by the defendant, William Rubenstein, Detroit.

The arrest was made by Constable Glenn Guise on information laid before Justice Basehore by Edgar C. Rubenstein, Franklin township. He charged that his brother, recently arrived from Detroit, had been making threats and causing disturbances at the Edgar Rubenstein home over a period of a week or more.

One of the conditions of the settlement was that William leave the county.

Seek Contributions Here for Fund to Buy 50,000 Folders To Advertise Gettysburg

FOLLOWING repeated requests from Mrs. Josephine F. Bright, assistant director of the Pennsylvania building at the New York World's fair, for Gettysburg literature to supply "hundreds upon hundreds of requests" an effort is being made to raise $500 to purchase 50,000 special folders advertising Gettysburg and its many historic points of interest for distribution at the fair grounds and along the main arteries of travel.

Last week two representatives of Gettysburg visited the World's fair and investigated the promotion situation in so far as the Pennsylvania building and its visitors was concerned. Several different hours during the course of one complete day the local representatives found the information desk and literature booth "crowded with visitors from all over the country requesting literature on historic points of interest in Pennsylvania." It was also noted that, despite the large staff at the Pennsylvania building, it was impossible to take care of the large crowds seeking information on roads and attractions in the Keystone state.

THE fair and the Pennsylvania building and the great number of visitors attracted to this state's exhibit is everything that it has been represented to be," one of the local representatives said today. "I was convinced that Gettysburg can attract a number of the fair visitors to this historic shrine if we only make an effort. I really believe that with the proper kind of literature for distribution at the Pennsylvania building we will accomplish this purpose."

The local effort consists of securing pledges to total $500 for the purchase of Gettysburg literature. If the $500 is pledged the 50,000 folders will be printed immediately. The major portion will be sent to the Pennsylvania building at the fair and the balance distributed in Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and Richmond.

The committee raising the funds has requested that those who are willing to co-operate in this endeavor to bring some business to Gettysburg, and who may not be reached by personal contact, that they send their contributions to the World's Fair Folder committee in care of the Gettysburg Motor Club, Gettysburg, Pa.

More than $215 have been pledged thus far.

With the election of two new members at the regular meeting on Monday evening membership in the Albert J. Lentz post, No. 202, of the American Legion rose to a new peak, the highest ever attained by the local veterans' group.

TELLS ROTARY OF HEALTH AIDS

Issuing a challenge for businessmen to give more thought to their health, S. F. Jenkins, of the Pottstown Y.M.C.A. staff, spoke to the members of the Gettysburg Rotary club Monday evening on the topic, "Fat at Forty or Fit at Fifty."

Thirty-four members of the club were present for the weekly luncheon in the Y.W.C.A. building, center square. President Charles Eicholtz presided.

During his thirty years as an athletic director, Mr. Jenkins said that the most common excuse given by middle-age men for not taking better care of their health is that "they don't have time." He added that he would like to show the men who use that excuse some of the examples of wrecked lives that have been caused by neglected health.

The speaker listed some foods to be included on one's diet to help one be fit at fifty. He also said it is necessary for businessmen to engage in some form of regular exercise. This activity might take the form of gymnasium classes, various games or individual exercises in the home, the Y.M.C.A. instructor pointed out.

WPA 'SYMPATHY' STRIKE MAY BE CALLED BY AFL

(By the Associated Press)
American Federation of Labor leaders opposing the 130-hour W.P.A. work month considered today calling a strike of all union members on federally-financed construction work in Pennsylvania to support the W.P.A. walkout.

As the walkout went into its second day, a "sympathy stoppage" of work on federal buildings jobs in Philadelphia was ordered, effective at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

The protest, union leaders said, would effect about 10,000 men on $30,000,000 worth of Public Works administration projects under way in Philadelphia.

State-wide extension of the stoppage would affect scores of other large projects, many of them at Pittsburgh.

James L. McDewitt, president of the state Federation of Labor, was in Harrisburg to discuss extension of the walkout with other union leaders.

1,364 Out on Strike

Harrisburg, July 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania W.P.A. headquarters today listed 1,364 of 15,000 skilled workers employed on projects throughout the state as having joined the walkout protest against the federal requirement for a 130-hour month.

A spokesman said that 258 of those on strike had been dropped from the payroll for failure to report to their jobs for five days.

The number on strike was divided as follows: Lehigh and Northampton counties, two each; Philadelphia, 826; Allegheny 501; Westmoreland four and Montgomery 29.

300,000 To Be Dropped

(By the Associated Press)
With the strike of W.P.A. workers over the new 130-hour work month apparently ended, except in a few cities, relief officials turned their attention today to enforcing other restrictions recently enacted by Congress.

State administrators struggled with the problem of trimming 300,000 names off the W.P.A. rolls by August 1 to conform to a reduced budget. The law requires furloughs of those on the rolls continuously for 18 months, and Col. F. C. Harrington, the W.P.A. commissioner, said such persons would constitute most of those dropped.

Morgenthau Praises New Lending Bill

Washington, July 18 (AP) — Secretary Morgenthau praised the President's $2,800,000,000 lending bill today as a "real advance toward the goal of bringing our governmental expenditures within our receipts."

Testifying before the senate banking committee, the Treasury head said he liked the idea of lending billions of dollars for self-liquidating projects.

"If we can substitute self-liquidating investments in place of outright government expenditures," he said, "we shall have made a great step toward bridging the gap between revenue and expenditures."

"This distinction between self-liquidating investments and non-recoverable expenditures is not merely a bookkeeping one, but is very soundly based."

"In the case of non-recoverable expenditures the servicing of the debts created to finance them must be met out of general tax revenues. However, in the case of self-liquidating loans such as are proposed in this bill, the interest and amortization payments are met out of the earnings on the investment."

Merry Fahdney to Divorce Her Fourth Husband

New York, July 18 (AP)—Madcap Merry Fahdney, Chicago's much-married patent medicine heiress, has started action to divorce husband No. 4, Count Oleg Cassini, the count's mother disclosed today.

"I don't know what it's all about," the mother said, "but I'm afraid it's true."

She referred all details to her darkly handsome young son, who began the day with a "Please Do Not Disturb" sign on his hotel room door.

The mother said she had not "the faintest idea" where Merry was staying.

Count Oleg, whose brother, Count Igor, a Washington, D. C., newspaper gossip columnist, was tarred and feathered in Warrenton, Virginia, recently, married the Chicago heiress 10 months ago at Elkton, Maryland.

BRITISH RULER REFUSE OFFER OF 1-TON PORPOISE

London, July 18 (AP) — Buckingham palace authorities have declined the offer of a one-ton porpoise which got lost in the River Thames and died.

Porpoises, sturgeons and dolphins are "royal fish" under an act of parliament in the 14th century reign of Edward II, and so the fish had to be offered to King George VI.

After palace officials hastily had waived their rights, the porpoise was towed to sea today for burial.

IT'S A FISH STORY

Winsted, Conn., July 18 (AP)—Sure, it's a fish story, but no less an authority than a police chief vouches for it. Chief Hugh Meade, of Torrington, said he was fly-casting at Highland lake here today and just as a pickerel was about to grab the lure his gold wrist watch slipped from his wrist into the water. The fish abandoned the fly, said Chief Meade, gulped down the watch and swam away.

60 Food Poisoning Cases Are Isolated

Hebron, Md., July 18 (AP)—State health department physicians reported today they had isolated 60 cases of food poisoning, aftermath of a church picnic, and were "smothering out" a threatened spread of contagious dysentery in this town of 900.

The disease, which broke out Saturday, already had affected some entire families, striking children and aged persons most severely. While several cases were serious, physicians said, they anticipated no fatalities.

Department nurses and laboratory technicians were rushed here Monday, largest city on Maryland's eastern shore. The milk there was given "high standard" rating.

No Hope Is Held for Recovery of Comiskey

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Attending physicians hold little hope for the recovery of J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox baseball club, critically ill at his summer estate near Eagle River, Wisconsin, the club's vice president, Harry Grabner, said today.

"A statement by two doctors at Mr. Comiskey's bedside said his condition was very serious and that little hope is held for his recovery," Grabner said. "He is unconscious now and has been for a day or so. He has been in an oxygen tent day and night. The diagnosis is left ventricular failure, complicated by pulmonary oedema, according to Dr. R. A. Oldfield, of Eagle River, and Dr. I. E. Schiek, of Rhineclander, Wisconsin."

Comiskey, 54, has suffered from a heart ailment for years.

Magistrate 'Sentences' Couple To Be Married

Philadelphia, July 18 (AP)—A couple was "sentenced" today to be married.

But that's all right to both Mrs. Marion Danis, a divorcee, and Stanley Millin. They told Police Magistrate William J. Hess they love each other.

Mrs. Danis had Millin arrested Monday night for drinking too much and annoying the neighbors, but at the hearing she seemed reluctant to press the charge.

"I love him," she said demurely. "But I want him to stop drinking." The magistrate turned to Millin and inquired: "Would you have any objection to marrying this young woman?" Millin grinned. "That would be OK by me," he said.

The magistrate set next Saturday for the wedding.

'May-December' Couple Plans Trip to Italy

New York, July 18 (AP)—New York's harassed pair of "May-December" honeymooners, 60-year-old Carmelo Locapira, and his tearful 16-year-old bride Torsilla, waited today a chance to slip out of their barricade Greenwich Village apartment for a trip to Italy.

Passersby gawked at the third-story window which was broken by a stone during the couple's wedding breakfast Monday, but the explosive taunts and cries of "Shame!" which welled from crowds during the newlywed's first day had abated.

While neighbors still argued the pros and cons of an "old man" taking such a young bride—with a few declaring Torsilla was lucky to get a well-to-do husband with "real gilt" furniture—Locapira told his police guards he wasn't planning any immediate move.

Torsilla, he said, will not go back to her seventh grade desk at public school No. 3.

Dairymen Oppose Cut in Milk Price

Scranton, July 18 (AP)—Dairymen from many sections of northeastern Pennsylvania, including those from the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area appeared at a hearing here today before the state milk control board to urge that the price of milk be increased so that "we can continue in business."

The state board reduced the price of milk a short time ago and since then the dairy farmers in this area have protested that they are facing bankruptcy. At the time milk was cut from 12 to 10 cents a quart, the board also reduced the return to the producer from $2.85 to $0.95 per hundredweight for milk used in bottle trade on the assumption that more milk would be consumed.

Diver Finds Squalus Resting on Even Keel

Portsmouth, N. H., July 18 (AP)—The disabled submarine Squalus, in which 26 men died, was found to be resting on the bottom on an almost even keel today when a diver made the first descent since the undersea craft tore away from its lifting pontoons last Thursday.

The diver reported the submarine had only a slight list to port. A tangle of lines about the Squalus' deck prevented his making a completed inspection, pending which plans for a new salvage attempt cannot be made.

Divers had been asked permission to descend to the Squalus ever since the effort to raise the craft failed, but until today, after some of the tangled lines and hoses had been cleared away, superior officers considered a descent too hazardous.

STOCK REPORT

New York, July 18 (AP)—Profit taking checked a fast rally in the stock market today but many leaders held gains of fractions to two points or more. CHIOZZA HURT, ADDING MORE TO TERRY'S WORRIES

By BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

If the experts begin reading the New York Giants out of the National league pennant race today, grant them ample justification.

At a time when the team should be at full strength to cut in on the Cincinnati Reds' seven-game lead and protect its own half-game bulge over the Chicago Cubs, infielder Lou Chiozza is out for the rest of the season with a broken leg; shortstop Bill Jurgis is "doing time" for rowing with an umpire; first-string catcher Harry Danning, the team's third best hitter, is hospitalized with a leg infection, and Manager Bill Terry is running out of possible infield combinations.

With Chiozza, both bones in his left leg fractured, definitely lost, Terry is bound to bedrock. Already he has Mel Ott, a natural outfielder, playing third base; Burgess Whitehead, a fragile second baseman, shifted over to shortstop, and Alex Kampouris, less than sensational, doing full-time duty on the vital second base patrol. If anything more goes wrong, Terry may be forced against his will to adopt the old Brooklyn Dodger slogan of "wait till next year."

It remains to be seen what the Giant master-mind can or will do.

Meanwhile the Reds are drawing away and the Cubs are creeping up on the Terrymen. The combination of the Giants' 4-3 defeat by St. Louis Monday with the Cubs' 11-2 shelling of the Dodgers and the Reds' 0-4 shutout of the Boston Bees left Cincinnati seven games in front of the Giants, the Cubs only half a game behind, and the Dodgers and Cardinals only a game out of second place.

It was "black and blue" Monday all around. In addition to the Chiozza collision with teammate Joe Moore, from which the latter luckily escaped without injury, Jim Ripple of the Giants took a header and Ducky Medwick of the Cards was winged by a pitched ball in the same game; the Reds' Ernie Lombardi was put out with a split finger nail halfway through the neat four-hit shutout battery-mate Bucky Walters pinned on the Bees; Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox was knocked unconscious as his boys came to the end of a 12-game winning streak in a 13-6 shelling by the Detroit Tigers, and even the Yankees' Joe DiMaggio was hit with a pitched ball by Bobby Feller of the Indians.

That wasn't the only ball Feller couldn't control, though. He hit "just enough bate for the Yanks to beat him, 3-0, behind Bump Hadley's five-hit flinging. Together with the Red Sox defeat, that upped the champions' margin to seven games ahead.

In the day's other games, Chuck Klein ran his hitting streak to 16 straight games as he weighed in with two homers that helped Pittsburgh to a 7-4 defeat of the Phillies in the National league, and the Athletics outslugged the Browns, 11-8, in the American league. The Senators and White Sox were rained out.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 18 (AP)—Jimmy Johnston, the fight manager (who didn't know they had been suspended) was at the Polo grounds Sunday to look over Bill Jurgis and Umpire Magerkurth. . . . They say Joe Batiste, the Tucson, (Arizona) hurdling star who was ticketed for Ohio State, may light at Michigan instead. . . . The Giants have been soaked a total of $460 in fines to date. . . . There is a suspicion abroad that the National league has that post-Fourth of July extra-lively ball back in circulation again. . . . Add flops; The late P.G.A. tournament—financially, that is.

Head of the class—The other day we chronicled here that three members of the N.Y.U. coaching staff attended three colleges each. . . . Now comes the Abilene (Texas) reporter with the info that Mose Simms, head man at St. Mary's (Texas) alone attended a dozen colleges.

Jeff Dickson, the European promoter, is eyeing the Chicago stadium. His number will be up in Paris if war comes. . . . John Dirmann, Tulane's boxing captain, is pushing a wheel chair at the World's fair. . . . Down in the Tar Heel league the other night, a kid named Oyler, pitching for Lenoir, fanned 11 Newton-Conover batters in a row. . . . That's a record, ain't it? . . . The Indians have signed Tony Galento to do a little extra added attracting in a night game with the Browns August 7. . . . Mike Jacobs has moved his 20th Century Sporting club into its new offices in the Brill building.

Willie Sherdel, the old Cardinal pitcher, is the G.O.P. candidate for sheriff of Adams county, Pa. . . . Here's one vote, Bill. . . . They now are manufacturing a special big league ball for autograph purposes. . . . It's about half the size of the regulation pill (otherwise the same) and is much cheaper. . . . The World's series the fans really want to see is Cincinnati vs. the Boston Red Sox. . . . Baseball radio announcers aren't allowed to mention it when a fan or fanette is clipped by a foul during a game. . . . Lou Ambers begins training Wednesday at Carmel, New York, for the Armstrong lightweight title fight.

Front office worries—A San Diego kid was late reporting at the spot where the knot hole gang assembles for Saturday games. . . . So he had to pay his way into the park. . . . Now his irate dad has written the club raising Cain about it.

Today's guest star—Jack McKernan, Bangor, (Me) Commercial: "University of Maine will have its line and backfield strength evenly distributed next season. . . . What with Stan Johnson, N.A.U. hammer-throwing champion, starting at tackle and Bob Bennett, IC4-A hammer-throwing titleholder, at quarterback, Coach Frank Brice can hardly 'weight.'"

Voting contest—Who should get the next Nat. Fleischer boxing belt—Magerkurth or Jurgis?

LOOKING AROUND

The first half of the community softball league closes this week and from all reports and indications the second half is going to be a much closer affair. Practically all of the teams have revised their rosters with the result the teams appear to be more evenly balanced. The popularity of the game locally is growing fast and crowds which are continually growing, attend each game.

A new coat of paint has been applied to the fence inclosing the Gettysburg college football field. Paint is also to be given the bleachers on the field. New bleachers are scheduled to be erected on the field and college officials are hoping for a break in the weather for home gridiron games this fall which would mean large attendances and which in turn would mean erection of the new bleachers possibly for the 1940 season.

Two games face the Gettysburg Old Timers this week. On Wednesday evening Biglerville will be met on the playground diamond. On Friday Hunterstown will be played at Twin Bridges.

Another full program of sporting activities is listed for Williams Grove park this week-end. A class field of trotters and pacers of the Penn-Jersey circuit will compete for a total of $3,100 in prizes on Friday and Saturday afternoons. On Friday evening Pennsylvania's biggest A.A.A. amateur boxing tournament will open at Williams Grove. More than 20 bouts will be held on the opening evening.

PLANS FOR NIGHT BASEBALL ALARM DODGERS' CHIEF

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, July 18 (AP)—Look who's becoming alarmed about that sinister newcomer, night baseball!

None other than Larry MacPhail, the ballyhoo man who introduced the arcs and, so to speak, forced them down the unwilling gullets of his fellow big league magnates.

The Brooklyn boss, a smart showman, is scared now that his less far-sighted comrades will over-do the thing in their feverish excitement over that night game's obvious financial benefits. The fresh money has gone to their heads, fears MacPhail.

What flushed Larry was the news that President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators, once a stubborn opponent of night ball, was sponsoring a proposal to play 40 games a season after dark, and that an owner or two in the National league favored hiking the present quota of seven nighters a year.

"They're wrong, just like they were when they opposed night ball in the first place," rages the Dodgers' outspoken Barnum. "I'll quit baseball if they load on the night games. Can't they see they will destroy the benefits we've already had?"

With the season just half over, Brooklyn already has passed the halfmillion mark in attendance. MacPhail estimates that 200,000 of these were new fans, first drawn to Ebbets field by the innovation of night ball.

"I've regarded the night game all along strictly as a means of stimulating interest," said MacPhail. "It's done that. But baseball remains basically a daylight game. Give the fans an over-dose of night ball and we'll be worse off than we were before."

Incidentally, night ball is not the only one of Larry's pets that is growing up and beginning to snap at the master. Local observers were convinced that the radio was partially responsible for the fact that only 13,000-odd fans paid to see the closing game of the Brooklyn-New York Giants series Sunday before last.

Where some of their rivals are going hog-wild about night ball, the Yankees and Giants show no signs of weakening in their resolves not to play after dark at Yankee stadium or the Polo grounds.

Fabers-Moyers Win; A. and P. Eliminated

Fabers-Moyers assured themselves of at least a tie for the first half championship of the community softball league by defeating the Acme team Monday evening 19-1. The victors piled up 25 hits including home runs by Flynn, I. Kitzmiller, Weikert and Everhart. Meanwhile the Acme team collected but five singles.

The gas company defeated the A. and P. on the playground field Monday evening 7-2 and eliminated the A. and P. from all chances at the first half title. McSherry pitched for the victors with Danfelt as his opponent.

This evening Shaners and the A. and P. will meet.

Softball League Plans Second Half

An eight-team schedule for the second half of the community softball league was drawn up at a meeting of team representatives Monday evening in the Boy Scout room of St. James Lutheran church.

Teams representing the furniture factory and the F. and T. lunch room have joined the loop. Reports that the post office would enter the league have proven unfounded, employees asserting they know nothing of the formation of a team or entering the league.

It was decided each team will be allowed a roster of 15 players. Two weeks will be allowed team managers to complete their rosters after which no changes will be allowed.

Don Bream was named as president of the league.

BARTER

Peckville, Pa., July 18 (AP)—A customer walked into Henry Truckers' jewelry store with a delinquent bill for $2.50 and announced: "Can't pay you today." Truckers eyed 25 quarts of huckleberries the man was peddling, took the lot and marked the account "paid."

Sidewalk Kibitzers

Assured of Comfort

Boston, July 18 (AP)—Boston's sidewalk kibitzers are going to have themselves a time this summer while the steam shovel boys gouge out a "fascinating hole" for the New England Mutual Insurance company building on Boylston street in the Back Bay.

Listen to David Tibbetts, director of advertising for the company, tell about the new sidewalk kibitzers' grandstand:

"There will be a doorman on the gate when the place is officially opened in a day or so and there will be plenty of pointed matter to explain what is going on. The seats are not plush covered, but they are comfortable. The awning will keep off the hot sun. And the guests will enjoy an uninterrupted view of the most fascinating hole dug in Boston in many a day."

Court Upholds

Packing Company

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—An appellate court decision held today that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had exceeded his powers in ordering Swift and company, the meat packers, to "cease and desist" from certain credit, discount and weight practices.

The decision by the United States circuit court of appeals Monday setting aside the secretary's order of June 6, 1938, said the order "presupposes" that the stockyards and packers act gave him "power at least as comprehensive as the power of the Interstate Commerce commission in its field."

"We find no evidence in the act of an intention by congress to confer such a power upon the secretary of Agriculture," said the opinion.

Wallace alleged the company extended credit to certain customers from 30 to 90 days but limited others to five days and that these and other practices were "unjustly discriminatory," which the company denied.

The secretary began proceedings September 30, 1936.

The court held the business practices complained of were justified and not obnoxious to any requirement of law.

Blows by Boy, 7, Lead To Death of Girl, Aged 3

Titusville, Pa., July 18 (AP)—The death of little Janet Carol Faunce, at first believed due to fright when she fell into a shallow pool of water, resulted indirectly from blows inflicted by a seven-year-old playmate, Deputy Coroner C. M. Sonne reported today.

He said a boy described as the "roughneck" type had changed the story he first told concerning the incident and admitted he had "tapped" the three-year-old child on the chest, stomach and back. The lad said he had "fought" with Janet on another occasion recently.

Sonne held the child's death due to suffocation. He explained she had been knocked unconscious and was unable to breathe when her mouth fell downward against the ground. No water was found in her lungs.

Janet disappeared from her home last Friday. More than two hours later searchers found her nude body in a six-inch deep pool. Several children playing near the scene directed them to the place where they said Janet had been wading.

Boy Photographing Quarry Blast Killed

Harlem, Mont., July 18 (AP)—Wade K. (Sonny) Confer, 14-year-old schoolboy who wanted to photograph a 26-ton dynamite blast at his father's quarry, was killed when the huge charge went amiss. Eighteen persons were injured. The quarry appeared today as if it had been bombed.

Instead of dropping a rock wall flatly, the explosive hurled granite boulders weighing up to 30 tons high in the air Monday.

Fourteen railroad flatcars were "crumpled like tinfoil," one witness said.

Rails were uprooted and power lines torn down.

Two camp buildings were crushed in.

MIKE A VAGABOND

Williamsport, Pa., July 18 (AP)—Mike, the ubiquitous parrot, has bobbed up again—at a chicken farm. Since checking out on his mate, Biddy, two weeks ago, Mike has flitted about town wisecracking at pedestrians from treetops and mocking the entreaties of Biddy and his owner to come down and "all will be forgiven." He defeated numerous efforts to dislodge him. Mrs. A. S. Meskell, Mike's owner, now learns that he has been heckling hens. She has concluded that he's an incorrigible vagabond.

CORRIGAN WEDS

Corpus Christi, Tex., July 18 (AP)—Douglas Corrigan plans to take his bride to Arkansas Pass, Texas, where he spent part of his boyhood. They made a honeymoon flight here late Monday from San Antonio after their marriage on the first anniversary of Corrigan's famed flight to Ireland. Mrs. Corrigan was the former Miss Elizabeth Marvin, of San Antonio.

CONSIDER THREE MOVES TO REVIVE NEUTRALITY BILL

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Despite growing hot-weather sentiment for adjournment, administration leaders in congress took under consideration today three possible methods of reviving the controversial neutrality bill at this session.

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the majority leader, told reporters that the discussions, while "very much in the study stage," were centering on these possibilities:

1. The senate might be asked to discharge the foreign relations committee from further responsibility for the bill, which then would go directly to the floor for debate.

2. The legislation might be attached to some other pending bill as a "rider."

3. Some member of the foreign relations committee might be won over to the administration viewpoint, thereby reversing the 12-11 vote by which the committee recently shelved neutrality legislation until the next session.

"We have not given up," Barkley asserted. "We still are hopeful that something can be done."

Coinciding with his study of possible legislative moves, Barkley approached the senate republican leaders with the suggestion that they go over the whole neutrality question at a conference with President Roosevelt and democratic chiefs.

Barkley said Senator McNary, of Oregon, the republican leader, and Senator Austin, of Vermont, assistant republican leader, had agreed to talk with the President if a situation developed "in which such a conference would be desirable."

A conference would be desirable, Barkley explained, if the administration should want to ascertain how far the republicans would co-operate in seeking neutrality legislation at this session.

Two Professors Attack New Deal

Hanover, N. H., July 18 (AP)—Two professors from large eastern college made direct attacks upon the new deal today, with one declaring that some of President Roosevelt's policies mean "dictatorship in the authoritative, European sense."

Dr. William Starr Myers, professor of politics at Princeton, in a prepared address opening a three-day conference at Dartmouth college, promoted by the Braman fund committee for the defense of the Constitution, applied the "dictatorship" term in saying Mr. Roosevelt held "it is for the President to make the policies, and for congress to find the methods to carry out his will."

"It has shown itself in direct steps toward an authoritarian state," he added. "The T.V.A. plan is pure socialism. Our present system of taxation and 'relief' is communistic in part. The new deal attitude toward business is fascist."

Walter Spahr, professor of economics at New York university, contended in another prepared address that representative government in this country in the last seven years had become "mere nose counting."

"It is my considered opinion that since 1932 no one procedure has been more characteristic than the nose-counting of pressure groups and the dangling before them of promises and programs designed to catch their votes."

SAFER DRIVING 'PAYS' AUTOIST

Harrisburg, July 18 (AP) — Safer driving is earning dividends for Pennsylvania motorists.

The number of accidents, injuries and fatalities attributed to automobiles all declined the first half of this year as compared to the first six months of 1938, the Department of Revenue reported today.

Charles Wilson, director of the highway safety division, explained: "People are more safety-conscious. We can't put our finger on any one thing but the record is pleasing. Enforcement, education in schools and elsewhere and prosecutives collectively add up."

Wilson believes strict enforcement and greater adherence to the 50-mile-an-hour maximum speed law, with its 90-day license suspension for violators, "helped to reduce the severity of accidents."

Figures support his conclusion. There were 557 automobile fatalities from January through June this year as contrasted to 737 the same period last year, a 24.4 per cent reduction. Suspensions of speeders' licenses declined slightly, 2,967 to 3,084 last year.

There were 27,955 accidents, injuring 21,854 persons the first half of 1938, and 26,326 accidents, injuring 21,063, this year.

One-year revocations of drivers' licenses, usually ordered in cases of intoxication, violations involving felonies and the like, affected 2,056 drivers this year and 2,622 in 1938. Total suspensions, including the 50-mile violators, were 9,353 last year and 8,544 in 1939.

SEEMS ODD; DOESN'T IT

Lynn, Mass., July 18 (AP)—Seems police have very red faces today, trying to explain to Rocco Ceviello, 15, about his bicycle.

Seems Rocco took advantage of a police invitation to all boys to park their bikes in the police garage when down town, so as to avert thefts.

Seems the bike wasn't there when Rocco went back.

Seems a thief took it.

SEEK PLACES ON FAYETTE BALLOT

Uniontown, Pa., July 18 (AP)—Court action was promised today in a fight to prevent republican Governor James from naming the successor to a democratic common pleas judge in Fayette county.

State Senator Anthony J. Cavalcante, Chad L. John and J. Espey Sherrard, all of Uniontown, said they would file mandamus proceedings to compel county commissioners to advertise for judgeship nominations in the September primary.

They are democratic candidates for the post left vacant by the death of Judge Harry A. Cotton, and announced plans for the court move after Attorney General Claude T. Reno said James might have constitutional authority to fill the office along with a similar place in York county.

Reno said democratic judges in both counties died within 90 days of the time for the September primary and after the secretary of the commonwealth issued a certificate to the commissioners in each county advising them which offices might be advertised for nomination.

"We know the secretary cannot amend or revise that certificate," asserted the attorney general. "Whether nominations can be made by any other method than through the primary election is a question we are studying now."

"It is a question whether the new election code provides any machinery for filling vacancies caused by death within 90 days of the primary election. If there is no machinery provided, necessarily the term of the new court appointees will go through to the first Monday in January, 1942."

Pipe-Smoking Woman, 75, Lost Picking Berries, Sought Near Reading

Reading, Pa., July 18 (AP)—A trackless wilderness in the Welsh mountains, once the hideout of bandits, was searched today for an elderly, pipe-smoking woman who disappeared three days ago while picking huckleberries.

The missing berry-picker, Mrs. Emma Steffy, 75, left home early Sunday with her pipe, tobacco, sandwiches and a vacuum bottle of coffee.

When she failed to return home at night, her family told neighbors and searching parties of farmers and state police were organized. They plunged into the dense thickets of the lonely southern Berks county region, but halted temporarily Monday midnight while a call was sent for bloodhounds from Rockview penitentiary.

Twelve hours after Mrs. Steffy left home in Bowmansville, Lloyd Huyett, a neighbor, reported he found her in a woodland eight miles from her house and offered to take her home in his automobile. She refused at first, but later got into his car and rode within three miles of home. There, she insisted on leaving the car, saying she had left a coat in the woods nearby and wanted to take it with her. That was the last he saw of her.

The area in which Mrs. Steffy was believed lost once was a hideaway for the notorious Abe Buzard gang. It is a vast wilderness of hundreds of thousands of acres which never have been cultivated or logged off. Men have been lost there for days and hunters seldom venture into the more impenetrable parts.

NO COMPENSATION

Lancaster, Pa., July 18 (AP)—Miss Rachel E. Steffy's job was helping injured persons fill out applications for workmen's compensation. She slipped on a waxed floor and injured one ankle severely. She cannot apply for compensation because the accident occurred at home and not at her place of employment.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

BENEFIT THE OTHER FELLOW

DURING an interesting string of years I have come in contact with many notable and noble human beings. Many of them have been very great without knowing it! Others have been famously great because they couldn't keep their greatness concealed. Each, in his way, however, reflected his greatness in the benefits that he distributed. Benefits, first and foremost to the other fellow.

You always gain by boosting someone else. The outstanding note in the recent autobiography of William Lyon Phelps is his unsparing praise of others. Critics have found fault with him because he so rarely finds fault with a person or an author. Some time ago I sold to newspapers a daily talk by Dr. Phelps and an editor drew me aside one day and said: "Can't you get him to criticize a little and not praise so much?" My reply was that Billy wasn't built that way. He likes to praise and encourage. And God bless him for it! He has brought success and happiness to untold numbers.

A good many people look upon Sinclair Lewis as a rather sour and unappreciative human being. But I know differently. He has often gone out of his way to encourage and inspire young writers, and is himself appreciative of the praise of those who are obscure and unknown.

I don't care who you are — if you perform any service that is of benefit to some one else, you are sure to gain magnificently because of the effort.

I am thankful because of the many opportunities I have had, during my long business career, of doing small favors that have benefitted others. Often I have been asked: "What did he do for you?" My reply has been: Plenty! The very fact that you have done something to make another happy, or have so performed as to inspire and encourage another, is pay enough. You have paid yourself!

One thing you can be sure of — if you do nothing to benefit some one else, you are making no headway in life.

An old motto often looms in my mind: "Look up, not down. Lend a hand." I believe that it was created by that fine old lover of human being, Edward Everett Hale, of glorious memory — he who wrote "A Man Without a Country."

propped him against the wall of the smokehouse. Then he struck a match. The next instant Mr. Coletti emitted a startled yelp.

"Gee whiz," he cried agnost. "It's da wrong guy."

For a few breathless seconds he stood staring at Richard Craftonbury in fascinated horror. Then panic seized Mr. Coletti. This was all highly irregular. It was a condition not covered by the Chiseler's instructions. And without instructions from the Chiseler, Mr. Coletti was at a loss as how to proceed.

Four Blind Dates

By Edwin Ruff

Chapter 36
Mistaken Identity

RICHARD CRAFTONBURY reached the foot of the steps and proceeded a yard or two along the gravel path that led away from them.

"My property," he said, somewhat pompously, "extends right down to the Sound."

Miss Dorothy South shot an apprehensive glance over her shoulder. She had some vague idea of attempting to signal Ape Coletti to desist from caressing this particular gentleman with his blackjack. But, even as the notion crossed her mind, she knew it wouldn't work. The Ape would never interpret a signal correctly.

Perforce she had to bring her head back to a normal position to give attention to Richard Craftonbury.

"If you look across the water," Richard Craftonbury was saying, "you can see the lights of..."

He got no further. There was a quick step behind them and a soft dull thud. For the ten thousandth part of a second Richard Craftonbury, whose mind had been on lights, realized that the world contained twenty million multi-colored lights and that all of them were in his head. Then he slumped to the ground.

A horrified scream rose to the lips of Miss Dorothy South, but she choked it back. The next instant Ape Coletti was at her side, grinning complacently.

"Dat wuz neat wolk, huh, Dottie?" he said in a hoarse whisper.

With a Herculean effort Miss South regained a soupcon of her accustomed poise.

"Now you've done it, you dumb wop," said Miss South. And without giving the Ape time to get over one of his brilliant comebacks, she turned and fled.

For a brief moment Mr. Coletti remained standing over the prostrate form of Richard Craftonbury, scratching his head. What had he done, anyway, except to carry out his orders to the letter?

Well, he supposed that Dorothy, having unburdened herself of that uncomplimentary remark, had rushed off to faint in the driveway in accordance with the Chiseler's instructions. And that brought up another point. Where the devil was the Chiseler, anyhow? He'd been gone for hours and Coletti was somewhat concerned lest he might be pocketing certain items of value within the house which he would refrain from declaring in the final division of the swag. He shook his head. Gosh, it was getting so a guy couldn't trust anybody.

Anyway, he'd better take this guy over to the smokehouse. He bent and lifted the inert body of Richard Craftonbury. It wasn't much of a job. Richard Craftonbury, for all the fire that burned within him, was a slight spare man. The Ape merely tossed him over his shoulders and set off for the smokehouse.

He arrived without mishap. Then, working in the dark, he took a ball of twine from his pocket. In a very few minutes the wrists and ankles of Richard Craftonbury were securely bound.

The binding completed, Mr. Coletti produced two large handkerchiefs. He still disdained a light. This was his work and he was a master at it. Let rank amateurs among binders and gaggers risk detection by creating illumination. He, Coletti, was a prudent experienced workman who used the touch system. Crushing one of the handkerchiefs into a wad, he inserted it in the unprotesting mouth of Mr. Adams. Then he stretched the other handkerchief to its full length, placed it across Mr. Adams' mouth and secured it behind his head. The job was finished. And now the Ape felt justified in viewing his own handiwork.

Bending over he lifted Mr. Adams to a sitting position and against something very, very tough.

"Gnashing, tearing, biting, ripping, slashing, rending and snorting," Mr. Adams proceeded to show the cock-eyed world what an oil tycoon can do when aroused. The gag offered stubborn resistance. But in a short time one of Mr. Adams' canine teeth got a grip on the outer handkerchief.

There was a rending sound. Mr. Adams gathered himself and rent further. The gag fought back fiercely, but futilely. Presently it was all over but the shouting. Mr. Adams sat up, spitting out lint, ravelings, shred and small humbled bits of fabric in general. Then the shouting began, in a big way.

"Help!" shouted Richard Craftonbury, in a voice that would have shamed a Senator. "Help, dimmit! Somebody get me out of here."

Continued tomorrow.

Boy Knocked Between Rails by Train Lives

Pittsburgh, July 18 (AP)—A 123-car freight train ran over 10-year-old Robert Robb but he lived.

Bobby dropped his bathing-suit Monday while he and a playmate were walking down the Pennsylvania railroad tracks toward a swimming hole. He said he stooped to pick it up "and that's the last I remember."

A double-header freight struck the boy and knocked him between the rails. He lay there unconscious as the two engines and cars rumbled over him.

The horrified companion ran for help after the freight had passed. Bobby was rushed to a hospital where he was reported suffering from a probable right thigh fracture and cuts and bruises. Otherwise he was all right.

"Boy, that was a close one," declared the lad when told what had happened. "I'm one of the luckiest kids I know."

SALAD DRESSING TIP

When making French dressing or mayonnaise, chill the utensils as well as the ingredients before starting operations. If mayonnaise won't thicken, start over again with another egg yoke, add some oil slowly and beat steadily until the dressing thickens. Then slowly add the part that did not thicken so that there will be no waste. Remember, to beat steadily all the time.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

a grim school to prepare lads for war. The authorities even allowed fond mothers and fathers to come and see their offspring installed.

The real sign of a revolutionary change, however, came in an order that the recruits were (in effect) to be handled with gloves. There was to be "no bullying or sarcasm."

It is notable, too, that in recent days there has been reported a relaxation in the rigidity of the discipline and drill in the great French army, which is held to be one of the finest in existence.

The inauguration of compulsory training also sees the beginning of another great change in English life. All ranks of society are being lumped into the great melting pot for recruits.

That can mean nothing else than a leveling off of the rather sticky class distinctions in England.

World's Fair to Try 'Dollar Day' Experiment

New York, July 18 (AP)—The "World of Tomorrow" has decided to try a business stratagem from the world of today—dollar day—to bolster attendance.

New York World's fair officials announced bargain tickets with a face value of $2.25 would be sold for $1 this week-end. They will cost children only 50 cents.

The tickets, good either next Saturday or Sunday, provide admission to the fair, twenty cents worth of food and entrance into any five of a list of 25 amusement concessions and exhibits.

If the "dollar day" experiment proves successful, officials indicated it would be repeated. They also have taken under consideration a request by exhibitors and concessionaries that the present 75 cent admission fee be reduced to 50 cents.

THINKS OF BOYS

Lansdowne, Pa., July 18 (AP)—"It isn't the grapes that I mind so much," police Sergeant Thomas H. Brown said when he noticed neighborhood youngsters had stripped nearly one-quarter of his 80-foot grape arbor. "I would like to warn those kids that they'll be deathly sick if they keep on. Those grapes won't be ripe for weeks."

Discipline Eased For New Recruits In British Army

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, July 18—England applied the yardstick of democracy to her army in a big way over the week-end with the inauguration of her first modern conscription camps for the training of young soldiers drawn from all walks of life.

With the idea of avoiding harsh military regimentation and thereby making compulsory military training more palatable to a highly independent people, there was a relaxation of disciplinary procedure which must have appalled the professional soldier.

The regulations, at least at the outset, were more like those of a Boy Scouts' holiday camp than of

DANZIG NAZI LEADERS TALK OVER NEXT STEP

(By the Associated Press)
A pair of chronic trouble spots on opposite sides of the world caused new concern today.

The free city of Danzig was watched closely as leaders of the nazified Danzig government met to discuss the next steps to bring about reunion with Germany. The meeting was called just a few hours after nazi leader Albert Forster returned from long talks with Adolf Hitler.

In Berlin a government spokesman said that German officials believed the Danzig question was "steering in the direction of a peaceable solution." He added "we are very optimistic," but he failed to deny the suggestion that "solution" could mean only incorporation of Danzig in Germany—Hitler's stated program.

In Tokyo five key cabinet ministers met in emergency session to study a full report of recent Soviet air raids on strategic rail centers in Japanese-protected Manchoukuo.

The Japanese government, already taking a grave view of the situation, was asked by the Manchoukuo government to protest directly to Moscow over the raids. Meanwhile land fighting along the disputed border between Outer Mongolia, under Russia's protection, and Manchoukuo, Japanese-protected, flared anew in the vicinity of Lake Boro.

Observers of the Danzig situation expressed concern over movement of 40 military supply trucks seen proceeding along a highway leading into Danzig from East Prussia, driven by men in uniform. Neither the destination of the trucks nor the nature of their cargo was known.

The Danzig issue, particularly the truck movement, disturbed an otherwise calm atmosphere in London. The British, now taking the view that their preparedness measures have reached a "satisfactory state," looked at the immediate future with steadier nerves. The Daily Express predicted that "there will be European war involving Britain this year."

Britain's preparedness program moved ahead as her Inspector-General of overseas forces, Major-General Sir Edmund Ironside, began in Warsaw the task of co-ordinating Polish and British military strength.

In troubled China, Japanese naval authorities announced they would close three more south China ports—Santau, Luyuan and Shacheng—this Friday. Neutral ships and nationals were given the customary request that they leave—requests which the United States and Britain have rejected in the past.

In Shanghai the Chinese dollar slumped sharply, bringing business virtually to a standstill, following withdrawal of exchange stabilization fund support. The Chinese dollar fell from 12 15/16 United States cents, its value of Monday, to 10 1/2 cents at today's close.

Nearly 100 anti-aircraft guns landed in Bombay, India, since the middle of April will be used to arm merchant vessels in emergency. British ships here have had their decks rebuilt for gun-mounting.

Prepare for Annual A.A.A. Farm Visits

Checking on compliance under the 1939 farm program will start soon the Adams County Agricultural Conservation committee announced today.

The farm checkers have received instructions in this work and will soon start making their annual visit to farms in order to determine to what extent the farmer has participated in the program and to assist him in making out his application for his conservation check. The county committee further urges that starting this work at this time, which is a month or six weeks earlier than last year, should enable the farmer to receive his check approximately that much sooner.

The committee has asked all farmers to assist the farm checker by giving him all necessary information when the checker calls and cooperating with him in any other

RELIEF FOR TWO

Carbondale, Pa.—A transient, accosting Mayor William L. Monahan, complained of his soleless shoes made his feet "terribly sore." The mayor took him into city hall, slipped off a pair of brand new brogans and said: "If they fit, they're yours." They did, and the man walked out mumbled his thanks. "They've been pinching me for three days," sighed the mayor.

IRON MAN

Greenup, Ky.—John Holley wouldn't let a little cranial needle-work stop him. Thrown through the windshield of an automobile in an accident, Holley suffered head cuts so severe Dr. H. H. Holbrook took 75 stitches to close them. The mayor required two hours. Then Holley, a merchant at nearby Rush, Kentucky, resumed his trip-home.

EXCUSED

Muskogee, Okla.—Frank Baird, Wilburton bank cashier, was slated for grand jury duty. In rushed an embarrassed federal court official, whispered a few words to the judge. Baird was excused. The jury indicted Baird for embezzlement.

BIRTH CERTIFICATE

Ogden, Utah.—"We want to see our marriage license," said the male half of a middle-aged couple. County Clerk Lawrence Malan finally found it. "Thanks. I just wanted to see how old I am. I want to apply for a pension."

Hunters Warned Not to Use Dogs

Harrisburg, July 18 (AP)—Reports that some hunters are using dogs in chasing woodchucks brought a warning from the State Game commission Monday. Seth Gordon, secretary-commissioner, pointed out that the new game code restricts the use of dogs in the woods until after August 20.

The reason, he explained, is that the period from April 1 to August 20 has been set aside as the breeding season for most game and birds. In Cambria county, particularly, recent violations have been reported. "There have been no complaints received by the commission," Gordon declared.

He suggested the confusion may have existed through a provision in the game code which permits the digging out of woodchucks on cultivated lands with specific consent of the owner. Then, hunters are permitted to kill woodchucks "in any manner," but Gordon emphasized this did not permit the use of dogs until the scheduled date. The game code provides for hunting of woodchucks between 6 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) from July 1 to September 30.

FIVE INDICTED IN NEW ORLEANS ON FRAUD COUNT

New Orleans, July 18 (AP)—With indictment of five political and business figures on a charge they carried out a scheme to sell Louisiana State university $75,000 worth of furnishings in a hotel already owned by the university, the federal government indicated today its renewed interest in the complicated political structure left by the late "Kingfish" Huey P. Long.

Seymour Weiss, New York and New Orleans hotel man who was sponsored by the "Kingfish," was named with four others in the indictments returned Monday by the federal grand jury.

Weiss, former treasurer of Long's political organization, was one of several persons charged with income tax evasion over four years ago. Criminal prosecution of the charge was dropped, as were the charges against other top lieutenants of Long, after the senators' death.

Weiss paid a $38,746.10 civil claim. Indicted jointly with Weiss Monday were Dr. James Monroe Smith, whose resignation as president of Louisiana State university several weeks ago "broke" the political scandal that launched numerous state and federal inquiries; Louis Lesage, assistant to the president of the Standard Oil company of Louisiana; Monte M. Hart, president of Hart Enterprise Electric company and member of Caldwell Brothers and Hart, building contractors, and J. Emory Adams, Baton Rouge chain store official and nephew of the former L.S.U. president.

Smith, held in the Baton Rouge jail in default of $79,500 bond on multiple indictments of juggling and embezzling L.S.U. funds, was temporarily surrendered to federal marshals Monday night and brought here for arraignment.

Bond of $10,000 each set for the five indicted Monday was posted by Weiss, Hart and Lesage. Immediately after their release they were questioned by Frank W. Lohn, acting agent in charge of the internal revenue office at Dallas, Texas.

Richard W. Leche, governor until he stepped out after announcing the resignation of the L.S.U. president, testified for almost three hours Monday before the East Baton Rouge parish grand jury.

Told later of the federal indictments, he commented:

"Business is picking up." Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the late senator, hastened to New Orleans and conferred with Mayor Robert S. Maestri. Asked if Weiss would be discharged as president of the New Orleans dock board, he said he did not care to comment.

Medical Insurance May Be Available in Pennsylvania Soon

Harrisburg, July 18 (AP)—Public optional medical insurance should be available to Pennsylvanians of limited means by autumn.

"We hope to have the plan working by fall," Lester H. Perry, one of the incorporators of the first non-profit medical corporation in the state, said today.

The new corporation, the Medical Service Association of Pennsylvania, was formed under an act of the 1939 legislature authorizing the plan to be carried out through non-profit corporations.

"It is being set up on a state-wide basis," said Perry, but that doesn't mean other non-profit corporations in various sections of the state cannot apply for charters.

Perry is editor of the journal of the state medical society, which supported bills providing for the plan.

The new organization, which will have headquarters at the medical society's office here, has a charter application on file with the secretary of the commonwealth. Approval of the insurance commissioner and Department of Health is necessary for granting of a charter.

"The next step," said Perry, "is to have rates worked out and approved by the insurance commissioner." They have been estimated at approximately $2.25 a month for each person.

The plan is open to Pennsylvanians earning $30 a week or less with no dependents, earning $45 a week or less with one dependent and earning $60 a week or less with more than one dependent.

The law requires that physicians be in the majority on the boards of all corporations administering the plan. Representatives of the state Medical society and the state Homeopathic society are listed among the organizers of the first corporation.

Washington, July 18 (AP)—A dozen Pennsylvania counties will share an allotment divided among 11 northeastern states in a farm security administration plan to lend $1,227,937 during the next year to finance purchase of farms by tenants, sharecroppers or farm laborers unable to obtain financial assistance elsewhere.

Secretary Wallace approved the plan Monday.

Approximate county allocations are: Centre $25,000; Mifflin $40,000; Fayette $24,000; Susquehanna $10,000; Franklin $35,000; Cumberland $40,000; Berks $40,000; Butler $40,000; Greene $40,000; Northumberland $40,000; Lycoming $40,000, and Lancaster $40,000.

PHILA. GETS NEW POLICE CHIEF

Philadelphia, July 18 (AP)—James H. "Shoey" Malone, a 43-year-old shoemaker's son with a spectacular record as a detective and gang-buster, took over the city's top law enforcement post today in a shake-up which removed his predecessor.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson appointed Malone director of public safety after firing Andrew J. Emanuel, 70-year-old former patrolman.

The new director, veteran of a quarter of a century of police work, served nearly a year as superintendent of police in the present administration before resigning to become a member of the registration commission. He and other commission members later were ousted by Governor James.

Noted as a nemesis of gangsters during the prohibition era, Malone received the Bok award in 1929 for the arrest, single-handed, of two armed bandits during a hold-up. He shot one bandit dead. In Philadelphia police circles, he is renowned as the leader of the "big mob," a squad of officers founded to smash the gangs of the prohibition era.

Mayor Wilson dismissed Emanuel in a dispute over appointment of a detective captain. Emanuel had asked the civil service commission to promote John T. Murphy, head of a special anti-gambling squad organized a month ago.

The mayor ordered him to withdraw the recommendation. Emanuel refused. Murphy, a young detective whose work was praised by the recent special grand jury investigating vice and crime and by the Ruth legislative commission, was assigned to lead the squad after two judges openly blamed the mayor and Emanuel for failure to suppress gambling.

Malone said he would continue Murphy in this job.

IT'S LIKE "Roughing It" WITHOUT A CHECKING ACCOUNT

"Roughing it" is fine fun for about two weeks; then it begins to be no joke. You long for the soft beds, the pushbuttons, the thousand little gadgets that make civilized comfort and luxury so indispensable.

Also, after "roughing it" paying bills in cash and standing in line for money orders, after wasting hours pawing through receipts and trying to get figures straight, after fraying your temper arguing about bills you know you paid but can't prove you paid—Oh boy! Does it make you feel civilized again to pay bills by check!
